REPORT OF THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

TO THE CITIZENS OF EASTON :

The report of the Superintendent of Schools treats in detail of the work of the year. This report is submitted as a part of the report of the Committee, and we ask for it a careful reading.

STATISTICS.

Number of children in town May 1, 1890, between five and fifteen years of age	789
This is a loss from the year before of	1
Number of different scholars of all ages enrolled on the school registers in 1890	875
Number over fifteen years of age	77
Number under five years of age	4
Average amount per scholar, appropriated by the towns of the State for 1889	$12 30
Average amount per scholar, appropriated by the towns of the State in 1890	$12 93

The proportionate expense of No. 7, as compared with other parts of the town, has been maintained in accordance with the second and third conditions named in the bequest : viz., as much money per scholar from the money raised by taxation for the schools should be appropriated for the scholars at No. 7 as for the scholars in the other schools in town, and three fourths of the income of the bequest should be applied at No. 7.

The amount per scholar appropriated in 1890 was $13.93. No. 7 had 468 scholars, and the part of the appropriation for No.

7 was 468 times $13.92	$6,514 56
Add three fourths of the income of the bequest,	3,000 00
Total that must be expended in No. 7	$9,514 56

The expenses of No. 7 were as follows ; —

Teachers' salaries in No. 7	$7,918 55
Proportion of expense of music	292 50
Proportion of supplies	301 75
Cost of fuel (estimated)	453 93
Care of schoolhouse	600 00
Total expense of No. 7	$9,566 73

The Committee estimates that the amount necessary for the support of schools for 1891 is $11,000, the same as last year.

On account of the reinvestment of the funds at lower rates of interest the income of the bequest of Oliver Ames will be materially decreased in future. While it is not possible at this time to state exactly what the income will be, it is probable that the loss to the school department will be about $1,000 a year.

Reference to the financial report will show that the fuel account was larger in 1889 than it will be the present year.

Heretofore the coal has been delivered at various times during the winter as it was needed. The Committee decided to have all the coal put in during the month of August. This, of course, made it necessary to pay two years' bills last year.

The Committee is of the opinion that with the coal account brought down to the expenditures of a single year, and by no longer employing an assistant for the Grammar schools at North Easton the sum named will be sufficient, notwithstanding the loss from the bequest.

We also recommend $1,000 for text-books, $1,000 for repairs, and $1,000 for transportation of pupils, the same as last year.

The financial report shows an unexpended balance from each of the appropriations granted by the town. Railroad fares for the whole year have been paid for all pupils who come to the High School by train from Easton, South Easton, and Eastondale. During the winter months pupils from Furnace Village and the Howard District were carried to the railroad station in barges. A barge has also been run from Unionville to the High School. After paying all railroad fares for the whole year and confining the barge service to the winter months we have an unexpended balance of $154.43.

The school building at North Easton has been inspected by the member of the district police who is assigned to this district. He has ordered additional means of ventilation for the whole building.

The Committee and Superintendent have looked into the experiments in ventilation that have been made in other places, but have thought it best to defer action by the town until the success or failure of the systems now in operation has been established, as any change in our building that will satisfy the inspector must be attended with considerable expense. We call special attention to what the Superintendent says regarding the need of better accommodations for the High School. The Committee has carefully considered the matter without yet coming to a definite conclusion as to what plan will best furnish the room required.

We recommend that new furniture be furnished for two rooms at North Easton as the Superintendent suggests.

SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMITTEE OF EASTON :

I submit the following report of the school work for the year 1890. It is the fifth in the series of reports of the Superintendent of Schools of the Town of Easton :—

SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS.

Just before the beginning of the fall term Miss Barbour sent to the Committee her resignation as second assistant in the High school. Though little time was thus given in which to get a teacher, we were fortunate in securing Miss Florence W. Seaver, of Templeton, who, having just graduated from Smith College, was well qualified for High School work. In October Miss Alice M. Merrill, first assistant in the school, was called to Wakefield to fill a similar position there. Miss Merrill had taught nine years in Easton, doing an able and earnest work. When the chemical laboratory was established she made special preparation for teaching chemistry by studying at the Institute of Technology, and conducted the new department with success. I desire to bear especial testimony to the value of the rhetorical exercises as conducted by her on Friday afternoons. The dignity with which the pupils performed their parts and the helpful attention of the school gave evidence that this department was being well managed in Easton. The good wishes of the other teachers and of the whole school went with Miss Merrill to her new work.

For a second time in the year it became necessary to engage a teacher for the High School at very short notice. Miss Nina G. Holton, of Andover, who has taken the special teacher's course at Wellesley and has studied at the Zurich University, succeeded Miss Merrill.

At the South Grammar, Mr. Francis Abele, Jr., resigned at the close of the spring term, in order that he might take a college course. Mr. F. W. Kingman, of East Bridgewater, a graduate of the Bridgewater Normal School, who had had one year's successful experience in teaching, took the school in September. His health failed, and, after six weeks, he was obliged to insist that his resignation should be accepted. Mr. E. Irving Beal, who is also a graduate of the Bridgewater Normal, has been in charge of the school since Mr. Kingman resigned.

The South Primary and the schools at Eastondale, Howard district, Poquanticut, Unionville, and the Centre have been taught during the whole year by the teachers who were in those schools when the last report was made.

Mr. J. Q. Litchfield was called from the Union Grammar to a school at Hingham at a larger salary than he received here. Mr. M. C. Leonard, of Norton, a Bridgewater graduate, who was teaching at Rye, N. H., was selected to take Mr. Litchfield's place.

At the end of the spring term Mr. Leonard decided to resign in order that he might return to Bridgewater and take the advanced course there.

It is an interesting coincidence and worthy of special notice that the only grammar masters we had in town were both moved to resign places in which their work was satisfactory in order to better fit themselves for their life work by more thorough learning.

Mr. Charles C. Price began teaching the Union Grammar in September. Mr. Price has studied at Bridgewater, and has taught in other places.

At North Easton Miss Harriet M. Stevens, teacher of the A and B Grammar, resigned at the end of the spring term. Miss Louisa C. Young, who had taught the C Grammar succeeded Miss Stevens. Miss Mary A. Stone, who formerly taught at Bay Road, was called from the principalship of the Howard School in Brockton to take the C Grammar room.

Miss Georgia Kimball, teacher of the D Grammar grade, also resigned at the end of the spring term.

Miss Lizzie P. Howard, of Bridgewater, took the place Miss Kimball had left; after teaching one term she also resigned, to enter that domestic state that had at the end of the preceding term deprived us of the services of the two teachers whose resignations are recorded above.

Miss Josie F. Barton, who had been assistant in the D and E Grammar rooms, is now teaching the D Grammar.

In the Primary schools at North Easton no changes have taken place in the corps of teachers.

At the Bay Road School, Miss Emma Stewart, who resigned in March, was succeeded by Miss Myrtie A. Mitchell, who taught until the end of the year, and then, as three others of our teachers had already done, left the profession.

It has been my intention in my reports to you to make mention of such of our young people as make special preparation for teaching in the public schools. The record of one was omitted last year. Miss Georgie A. Stone was a member of the Quincy training class, from which she went to a school in Essex, and later to a position in the graded schools at Athol. During her last vacation Miss Stone substituted acceptably in the A and B Grammar at North Easton. Miss Alice M. Howard and Miss Annie G. Howard withdrew from the High School at the end of the spring term to take the full four years' course at Bridgewater.

In January, 1891, Miss Edith M. Keith graduated at the Normal, receiving the class honors and delivering the valedictory.

Miss Mary E. Heelan, Miss Annie F. Lincoln, and Miss Grace A. Packard are training in the schools at North Easton.

Owing to the prevalence of diphtheria, the Grammar and Primary schools at North Easton were closed from the Wednesday before Thanksgiving to Monday, the 19th of January. The High School kept one week later than the others, but the attendance fell off so much that it was decided to close it also. An attempt was made to reopen the High School on Monday, January 5, but, as the attendance was at no time much more than half the number enrolled, it seemed best to again close the school until such time as the Board of Health would permit all the schools at North Easton to begin their work. We thus lost five weeks in the Primary and Grammar schools and three weeks in the High. By omitting the spring vacation, and extending the spring term into July, a considerable portion of the time can be made up.

The relation of the cranberry to culture has really become a serious matter in Easton.

How to harvest the cranberry crop and still sow the seeds of knowledge is a problem that demands consideration. The berries must be picked in September. With the increase of the production the interruption to the school work becomes more serious. The principal break takes place in the Grammar schools at North Easton, though there is hardly a district in town that does not send its delegation to the cranberry meadows. The time during which so many pupils are out is practically lost to the schools. Advance work cannot be taken up when fifty per cent or more of the pupils are out.

So, out of a year that is none too long, some of our schools practically lose four weeks or more at the beginning of the fall term. As the excellence of Easton berries becomes known and larger meadows are brought into cultivation, the question whether it would not be well to extend our school year farther into July, in order that we may begin later in September grows in importance.

SCHOOL PROPERTY.

The school buildings of Easton are in good repair and are well cared for; the rooms are attractive and clean.

Environment greatly influences conduct. Teachers who realize this, who keep their school-rooms well arranged and who keep down the dust, carry the same spirit into all their work and have good schools.

Wanton destruction or mutilation of school property is now a thing of the past, and the best furniture and appliances may be safely placed in the schools, because we are sure that they will be treated with proper care.

Better desks and chairs should be provided for some of the schools at North Easton. The furniture in the A Primary is too small for the children who now use the room, and the desks and chairs in the D Grammar are too low. I think it would be well to make a beginning this year by placing new furniture in the A Primary and changing the chair and desk irons in the D Grammar. The large building at North Easton is now cared for in a manner that compares favorably with the attention given to buildings of the same size in other places. A fence has been built on the south side of the yard at North Easton. The school property at the Bay Road has also been fenced.

STUDIES.

The drawing has continued in charge of Mr. Henry T. Bailey, agent of the State Board of Education, and I again bear my most hearty testimony to the value of his instruction and to the good influence he has had upon us in our work. Surely, one who comes into a school with an evident confidence in the good intentions of all, who works in such a way that he finds the good efforts and the good results and holds them up for our encouragement, helps to draw us all up toward those ideals that we ought always to have in view.

The spirit that Mr. Bailey brings into our schools — this constant appeal to the good — finds its response in the confidence and the effort of all. At the teachers' meetings we have been divided into primary and grammar sections, and have received thorough instruction in the work to be done in each grade. Especial advance has been made in drawing from models and in making plans. Some very interesting drawings from botanical specimens have been made in the higher grades. Through the indulgence of the State Board we have had a larger share of Mr. Bailey's services than any other town has enjoyed. In making this acknowledgment, and expressing our gratitude for the help we have had, I am sure that I fairly represent every teacher and all the pupils when I say that it is our earnest hope that we may be permitted to go on with Mr. Bailey in the work so happily begun.

The study of the United States history has been made more interesting and profitable to the children. Some historical study has also been added to the work of the lower grammar grades. As a result of this, pupils who do not complete the course will get some knowledge of the history of our country, and all who go full time will have a much better course than it was possible to give when the study was confined to the last two years.

The time to be studied has been divided into ten periods differing in length; the longer periods including those times that may be called of less importance in the nation's history, and the shorter periods those seasons that were full of stirring events.

The first of these periods is assigned for the work of all the grades for September, the next for October and so on during the year. Thus, for example, in September, all the classes are at work on topics like the following: Stories of Voyages of Discovery, Discoverers and Explorers, Life of Columbus, Men who explored the Coast of North America.

In January, all the classes are at work on the Revolution. But, while the general topic is the same, its treatment differs greatly in different grades.

With the younger children who are studying history for the first time, the instruction takes the form of reading and telling stories about the persons, places, and events that are assigned for the month.

In the higher classes the study is much more thorough and systematic; a greater effort being made to have pupils understand the causes and the results of the events they study. At the end of the month all the pupils write an account of the events about which they have learned. This account is kept by the teachers; so that at the end of the year, all pupils who have attended school the whole time will have written a series of papers, whose subjects cover the whole history of the country.

Thus a pupil who remains through the whole five years of the grammar course will have five different views of the history of the United States. During the first year, through stories of discovery, settlement, adventure, manners and customs, he will lay a foundation on which to build a superstructure of historical knowledge. In succeeding years, as he takes up the periods of which he already knows something, he will have the satisfaction of adding to what he has already acquired. This plan seems to me to be the true way in which to treat this subject, for we do not learn along straight lines of attainment, but such information as we have may more properly be said to be in groups or circles.

This year we grasp and retain a few facts relating to a period or event; our subsequent study recalls, reviews, and supplements what we have previously acquired; and so, by dwelling again and again at different times on the same topic, we become possessed of some broad and definite knowledge.

Such a study of history as I have attempted to describe completely does away with the committing to memory of any particular text. It has been said that "a most encouraging feature of modern educational work is the combination and co-ordination of subjects about some one particular study." By our work in the United States history we have tried to strengthen other lines.

Oral and silent reading have been helped ; spelling and penmanship have had special attention, and the pupils have the more willingly applied themselves to these branches as they wished to have their work that is preserved as free from errors as possible.

Any plan or device, that will make a pupil realize that his school work is not for to-day alone but for all time, will be a powerful stimulus to careful, thorough, conscientious work.

At one of the teachers' meetings, Mrs. Mary H. Hunt, of Hyde Park, showed what the Women's Christian Temperance Union hopes to accomplish by scientific temperance instruction, and the character of the work best fitted to secure the results desired. This meeting was attended by a number of the people of Easton, who are especially interested in temperance work. Since Mrs. Hunt's visit, every Grammar pupil has been supplied with an elementary book on physiology and hygiene.

A study of the text of these books supplemented by the oral instruction of the teachers is making the work in this subject more satisfactory.

Akin to this matter of physiology, is physical training. With this study should go such a drill as will secure a good development of the body and an erect and graceful posture, both in sitting and standing. Such a drill is furnished by the Swedish system of educational gymnastics. The drill given by this system differs essentially from the calisthenic exercises that we have used. In calisthenics we have had such exercises, almost entirely of the arms, as could be performed to music and would make an attractive appearance.

In the Swedish system, the movements are taken to words of command and are arranged so as to exercise and strengthen the whole body. Teachers who have taken courses of instruction in this system are practically unanimous in expressing favorable opinions in regard to it. Parents whose children attend schools where this instruction is given tell me that they realize its value as they see their children growing more erect in form.

The Trustees of the Oakes Ames Bequest have offered to furnish an instructor in this subject for the teachers and pupils at North Easton.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

The enrolment of the High School has been larger than it was last year, and the crowded condition of the school and its need of more ample accommodations deserve the serious consideration of the town. The main school-room is so crowded with desks that the recitation seats have been placed so near the principal's desk as to leave little room for moving about, and to give the room a decidedly uncomfortable appearance. It was necessary to place a row of desks along the west side of the room, thereby depriving the school of much valuable black-board room and still further crowding a space in which the limit seemed to have been reached a year ago. The ventilation of the room, which was pronounced unsatisfactory by the State inspector, is, of course, worse than it was at the time of his visit, as we now have more pupils in space that he pronounced insufficient for the smaller number. The recitation room on the floor with the main room is too small for either the third or the fourth class, and is uncomfortably crowded when either of these is sent in.

The room on the third floor, now used for a recitation room, should be used as a physical laboratory, in order that the study of physics may be treated experimentally as the chemistry now is. It is probable that the entering class next fall will be larger than the class that will graduate in June; so the school will be larger next year than it now is. If it does increase, or even if it remain as it is, more ample accommodations should be furnished. Every part of the building suitable for school purposes is now in use. Any change that will give the High School more room will make it necessary to find a place for the Kindergarten in some other building.

Something, however, should be done during the coming summer vacation. Reference has been made to the changes in the corps of teachers in the High School. We now have three teachers of experience and ability, all of whom are college graduates.

The graduating exercises of the class of '90 were held at Memorial Hall on the evening of Friday, June 27.

FLAGS.

The members of A. B. Randall Post, G. A. R., have presented a flag to the High School.

It was not deemed expedient to place a pole on the large building at North Easton, so while the flag is now the property of the school it has not been so placed that it serves the purpose for which it was given. At South Easton Mr. E. J. W. Morse had a suitable staff erected and also presented a flag to the school.

In the Howard district Mr. H. W. Heath presented the staff, and the teachers and pupils secured the funds with which to buy the flag.

The citizens erected a pole on the grounds of the Union School, and here, too, the teachers and pupils bought the flag. At each school public exercises of a patriotic nature were held on the day when the flags were first placed in position.

THE OAKES AMES BEQUEST.

Reference to the report of the Oakes Ames Bequest will show that there is on hand a balance of $4,717.33.

There have been during the year ten illustrated lectures in Memorial Hall, which have been free to all who chose to attend.

The Kindergarten has been continued, the sewing has prospered, and instruction in the use of wood-working tools has been furnished.

A further extension of the work in the carpenter shop has been made, so that the boys in the C Grammar class at North Easton now have one lesson a week in this department.

Two large globes have been added to our means for studying Geography.

Magazines have been furnished to the children of North Easton at a cost of $447.82.

The Hon. Oliver Ames has continued his gift of magazines to the scholars in the other parts of the town, for which he paid $262.94. As the representative of the children, I renew their thanks to the Trustees of the Oakes Ames Bequest and to Mr. Ames for these liberal gifts, which afford instruction and delight during the whole year.
